- 15.3 You are required to produce satisfactory evidence of identity, the source of wealth and the source of funds to be invested, and will be required to provide the Bank with such documentation as part of the evidence being produced.
- 15.4 You represent and warrant that the monies and investments that form part of your portfolio for investment and any future additions thereto have not originated and will not originate from activities or transactions which are a criminal offence in Malta or which, if carried out in Malta, would constitute such an offence or comprise property, the receipt, ownership or control of which would be considered as such an offence.

16. Risks

16.1 Investment Risk

- a) The price of all investments may go down as well as up. An investor may not get back the full amount invested and selling an investment in an inappropriate moment may result in a loss.
- b) Past performance is not indicative of future performance. Investment markets are volatile in nature and it is important that any investment is viewed as long term in nature.

16.2 Currency Risk

An investment may have a base currency, or be directly or indirectly exposed to different currencies, that are different to the Client's domestic currency and thus carries an element of currency risk which can affect the value of any investment and the income generated therefrom, including interest or dividend payments, positively or negatively. In addition, upon the sale or maturity of your investment, the realisable value might be less than the initial outlay when exchanged in your domestic currency.

16.3 Credit Risk

An issuer of a debt instrument such as a bond may be unable to meet interest and/or principal payments in the future and consequently default on its principal and interest repayments. The longer the term to maturity (repayment of principal), the greater the credit risk. Credit Risk is also assessed on the basis of the credit rating assigned to the particular investment instrument, by official and world-renowned credit rating agencies.

16.4 Instruments Issued by Banks - Potential Write Down

The Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive provides applicable authorities with a set of tools which may be used when banks are judged to be failing or likely to fail. One of the available tools is referred to as Bail-In. In this scenario, subordinated and/or senior debt instruments (bonds which are not backed by assets or collateral) issued by such bank may be converted into shares and may suffer a partial or full write down of such debt instruments. This process is applied to stabilise a failing bank so that essential services can continue without the need for bail-out using public funds. Therefore investors in instruments issued by bank could be negatively impacted depending on the type of instrument held within an investment portfolio should the bank fail or be likely to fail. Holders of subordinated debt instruments will be impacted prior to investors holding senior debt instruments. Moreover, in a bail-in scenario, investors in unsecured debt instruments would be in a less favourable position than depositors who are protected by a deposit guarantee scheme – up to limits as may be specified in the Scheme's Regulations.

16.5 Interest Rate Risk

The market value of a bond or other debt instrument may go down as well as up as a result of a variation in interest rates or expectations.

16.6 Sustainability Risk

The value of an investment may go down as well as up as a result of an environmental, social or governance event or conditions.

The Bank as Advisor of financial products is to take into account the information which manufacturers of these products are required to disclose. This includes, how they integrate ESG risks into their investment decision making processes and the likely impacts on the financial products' returns. The Bank's Investment Distribution Unit is to engage with manufacturers of financial products to comprehend how they undertake the integration of the above. Furthermore, information provided by these manufacturers, as defined - environmental, social and employee matters, respect for human rights, anti-corruption matters, and anti-bribery, are to be integrated in the financial advice provided.

16.7 Other risks

a) Investments in certain assets may be subject to specific risks which may or may not effect a particular investment. These risks may include counterparty risk, liquidity risk, country risk and political risk. The exposure to these risks may change over the course of the investment period, and may affect the value of your investment.

- b) You acknowledge that the risks involved and related to an investment are various and the risks referred to in these Terms constitute a non-exhaustive list.

17. Client Review

- 17.1 The Bank will not provide you with a periodic assessment of the suitability of the investments initially recommended to you. However, the Bank strongly recommends that you set up periodical appointments with our investment advisor to consider changes in your personal circumstances, review the performance of investments held, and assess continued suitability.
- 17.2 During these review meetings, you should update the Bank with any material changes to your risk level and/or investment objective. Furthermore, during these review meetings, you and the Bank shall, where applicable, determine whether any of the investments have fallen outside your risk profile parameters and any resulting action arising therefrom.

18. Set-Off

- 18.1 If you have failed to pay us any amount you owe us under any agreement you have with us, we may, unless prohibited at law, use the money we owe you to reduce or repay the amount you owe us. This is called a “set off right”.
- 18.2 We may use our set off right even if the amount you owe us is dependent on another event or has not yet become due, if we reasonably think you will be unable to pay us when the amount does become due.
- 18.3 We may use our set off right without telling you in advance if we reasonably think you will do something to prevent us from obtaining repayment by set off, or we have otherwise agreed with you that we can do so.

19. Security

- 19.1 As long as you owe us any money under this or any other agreement with us, we utilise your investments (including uninvested cash) in order to secure your indebtedness with us.
- 19.2 Where appropriate, we may require you to enter into a separate security agreement in relation to any such investments or cash that we require from you.
